

1. Introduction:

It remains the position that the Local Government Ombudsman has no jurisdiction over parish councils, except where they are

- i) working jointly with a principal authority through a joint committee which includes representatives of the principal authority, or
- ii) exercising the functions of a principal authority

An explanation of the process for complaints to the Ombudsman in such cases is given at Appendix 2.

The question therefore arises as to what should happen if complaints are received about administration or procedures of the council?

A complaint is defined as:

“an expression of dissatisfaction about the Council’s action or inaction, or about the standard of a service, whether the action was taken or the service provided by the Council itself or a person or body acting on behalf of the Council”.

This is in line with that established for principal authorities by the Local Government Ombudsman.

For the benefit of good local administration, it is suggested that every council adopts a standard and formal procedure for considering complaints either made by complainants direct or which have been referred to the council from other bodies. The policy below is a way of ensuring that complainants can feel satisfied that their grievance has been properly and fully considered.

The Council views this complaints policy and its attendant procedures as an efficient way of dealing with complaints received and a means of preserving the good reputation of the council.

2. Complaints about an employee of the council must be dealt with as an employment matter. The complainant can be assured that the matter will be dealt with internally following the Council’s Discipline and Grievance procedures and appropriate action taken as required.

3. Complaints by an employee about the workplace, must be raised in accordance with the Council’s established internal Discipline and Grievance procedure.

4. Complaints about a Councillor are subject to the Code of Conduct for Members. Complainants may be advised to contact the District Monitoring Officer for further information.

5. Complaints about the administration of the council, or about its procedures may be dealt with according to the procedure shown at Appendix 1. It is not an appropriate process for a complaint against individuals, as other provisions (described above) should cover these situations.

Please note: The formal meeting procedure described below is considered as ‘stage two’; designed for those complaints that are not satisfied by initial explanations provided to the complainant by the Town Clerk; a Chairman, or the Mayor, or ‘stage one’ informal assessment by the appropriate body. If a complaint proceeds to the formal meeting stage, and the Town Clerk is putting forward the justification for the action or procedure complained of, he or she will not also advise the meeting on procedural/legal matters.

At all times, the rules of natural justice will apply. In other words, all parties should be treated fairly and the process should be reasonable, accessible and transparent.

The council has authorized the Audit Panel to deal with complaints. This avoids the need for assembly of the full council and makes the process less daunting for a complainant if they choose to attend a meeting in person. The Panel will report its conclusions to the next Council meeting. Council remains available for an appeal. It should be noted that the Mayor has no special authority and is mentioned in this policy only insofar as s/he holds the responsibilities of the Chairman of Council during their term of office.

Under the Local Government Act 2000, the standards committee of Lewes District Council is empowered to promote and maintain high standards of conduct by the members of parish and town councils. Lewes Town Council considers it to be good practice and has notified the standards committee that a local code for such complaints has been adopted. The procedure below should not be confused with that available for complaints against individual members (see s4, above).

APPENDIX 2

COMPLAINTS TO THE LOCAL GOVERNMENT OMBUDSMAN

1. The relevant legislation is the Local Government Act 1974 ('the 1974 Act'). The Local Government Ombudsman (LGO) has no jurisdiction in respect of a local council unless it is working jointly with a principal authority through a joint committee which includes representatives of the principal authority (section 25(4)(b)) of the 1974 Act) or it is exercising the functions of a principal authority (section 25(7) of the 1974 Act).
2. To assist members of the public (including, perhaps councillors) to complain to the LGO where appropriate, the key points to remember are:
 - parish councils are unable to lodge complaints as a public body (section 27(1) of the 1974 Act) about another local authority or public body defined at section 25 of the 1974 Act but this does not prevent individual councillors from making complaints about another local authority or public body in their personal capacity. In their official capacity, if so requested by member(s) of the public, a parish councillor could represent them in making complaints. Please note:-
 - complaints must be made in writing;
 - complaints must be made within 12 months of notice of the matters which are subject to the complaint;
 - complainants must first give the authority in question notice of the complaint and give them an adequate opportunity to investigate and reply to the complaint. This usually entails exhausting that authority's complaints procedure;
 - the Ombudsman may not investigate matters which are or have been subject to a right of appeal; and
 - the Ombudsman may not investigate matters where the complainant has or has had a remedy by way of court proceedings.
3. The most common application of the Ombudsman's lack of jurisdiction where the subject matter of the complaint is subject to a right of appeal or court proceedings is in respect of judicial review. Many councils claim that the Ombudsman does not have jurisdiction in certain cases due to the availability of judicial review. In these circumstances the Ombudsman can rely on section 26(6) of the 1974 Act which states that:-

'A Local Commissioner may conduct an investigation notwithstanding the existence of such a right or remedy if satisfied that in the particular circumstances it is not reasonable to expect the person affected to resort or have resorted to it.'
